Labor Day Proclamation.

The spirit of this age demands improved conditions for the laborer. Only by patience and care and serious thoughtfulness can this be accomplished.

In theory we stand for equal rights while in fact we have exalted wealth and given undue consideration to its power. The vested rights of capital must be second to the rights of man and the welfare of the millions who struggle for a fair living for themselves and their families.

It has been thought wise and just to set aside one day in each year out of consideration for all who labor.

NOW THEREFORE, in pursuance of the law and custom, I WILLIAM C. McDONALD, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim.

Monday, the 4th Day of September, 1916, as LABOR DAY

and request that all public and private business be suspended so far as practicable in order that this may be made a real holiday.

I want to urge all good and true citizens, particularly those who labor to avoid ignoble things and strive only for that which is good for themselves and those for whom they are responsible.

Done at the Executive Office this the 20th Day of August, A. D. 1916. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.

Attested:
WILLIAM C. McDONALD,
ANTONIO LUCERO, Secretary of State.

Uses of Teakwood.

Teakwood is being used in India for general purposes in house and ship building, for bridges, railway sleepers, furniture and shingles. It is also used much for carvings, the Burmese carved teak being especially noted.

Teak has in the past been used to some extent for gun carriages, but it is not at present considered well adapted for this purpose, as it has been found that it splits too readily to be thoroughly valuable in artillery work.

Teak is strongly characterized by its scented, is of oily texture, and the surface feels greasy to the touch. Teak logs when first cut will not float. The wood darkens with age, and after a number of years becomes almost black.

Russians Capture 358,000

Petrograd, Aug. 16.—Between June 4, when the Russian offensive was inaugurated, and Aug. 12, General Brusiloff's forces captured more than 358,000 men, the war office announced today.

The Russians have captured a series of heights to the west of Vorckho and Ardzemoy, in the Carpathians. Jablonitz was taken yesterday. In the Vorckho and Delatyn regions the Austrians are retiring to the west.

New Way to Kill Rats.

P. N. Cliffe of Grayham county has a new method of killing rats under his barn. He mixed gasoline with coal oil in the supply tank of his auto, attached a rubber hose to the exhaust and put one end in the rat hole. The engine was started and hundreds of rats died under the barn. Many others ran out and died as soon as they struck the fresh air. Cliffe gathered up four bushels of dead rats.—Lockney Beacon.

Has Freak Pig.

E. L. Rush, who lives seven miles southwest of Hobart, has a curiosity in the way of a six-legged pig. The animal is a little over two months old and has four well-formed hind legs and is perfectly healthy.

The pig is of the Duroc breed and was one of a litter of eight. It weighs now about twenty-five pounds.

Two of the hind legs are normal. The digits are somewhat smaller but nearly reach to the ground. The pig has no trouble in moving forward but when it attempts to back the digits act as a prop and retard the movements.—Hobart (Okla.) Republican.

Mrs. Anna Beal Dead.

Mrs. Anna Beal, wife of John T. Beal, of Elida, died at 8:00 a'clock this morning at Ranger Lake, where she is visiting with her sons. Mrs. Beal's age was 59 years and the cause of her death was acute indigestion. She leaves a husband and eight children. The body was taken in charge by the Muller-Dabbs undertaking establishment and removed to Elida where interment will be made with services on Wednesday. This family lost a son by being stricken with lightning some three weeks ago.—Roswell Evening News.

FISH IN THE MILK

By FRANK A. HAYS.

Spring approached, and I was out very early of mornings, when I became interested in two dairy wagons. "Rivals, as sure as fate," I thought. One was Farmer Brown's wagon; the other, Farmer Jones'.

As the days passed I could notice that when Brown would make an improvement in his milk cans, wagon or harness, Jones would, the very next morning, have as good or better.

I saw here a contest to the finish between Brown and Jones that appealed to me very much, being myself a farmer. My sympathies were with Brown, as he was the older man, and he furnished milk to the family where I roomed.

Warm days having arrived, I concluded to go fishing, and on a particular Saturday I started for the river, a few miles from town. On the way out I heard a wagon approaching from the rear. Looking back, I recognized the red top of Brown's milk wagon, and as I stepped aside to let him pass was halted with these words:

"Young feller, if you git lank under the jacket, why jist saunter over ther to that white house an' I'll feed you." About noon I concluded I would "saunter over" and share Brown's extended hospitality.

"I knowed you'd come 'bout feedin' time. Come in and have a cheer. Ketch anything?"

"Not a thing," I replied, "and I concluded I would rather visit with you than to fish."

After a good dinner, Brown said: "Young feller, how I want you to tell me how I can down Jones."

"Well, Mr. Brown, I have often thought, when your wagon would rattle and your horses' hoofs would pound the paved street, that if a scheme could be devised by which this noise would not awaken your customers at such an early hour it would be a winner."

Sure enough, next morning but one, Brown drove down the street with his horses shod with coffee sacks.

A week later Jones appeared with his horses all shod with rubber. Soon they both had equipped themselves pretty well with rubber apparatus of various kinds, Brown having bought rubber tires for his wagon.

It began to look as if Jones was down, when, one afternoon, Brown rushed into my room exclaiming:

"This time I am beat. Jones has an automobile."

After dinner I walked up to the "corner grocery," whose owner, a Mr. Johnson, and I were good friends.

I found Johnson back in the warehouse changing the water on some minnows he had in a tank. I saw two milk cans, and learned they belonged to Farmer Jones.

On Tuesday morning I told Brown to meet me at Johnson's store at ten o'clock.

On arriving there I pointed out his competitor's cans.

"Now, listen," said I, "in those cans will be found a little milk and we will pour in as much water. In yonder tank are some minnows; we will get some of them and drop in one of those cans, and then we'll have Jones tell us how they got there."

Jones came in and started back for his cans, when Johnson said:

"Say, all you fellows, come back here with Jones and me. I want to show you something."

Of course, we all went. Johnson said:

"Now, Jones, you have always sworn to me, and to all your customers, that you never watered any milk. How did these minnows get into this can?"

"Fur Lord's sake, men!" exclaimed Jones. "I'll confess. I was in a hurry this mornin' and didn't git all the milkin' done, and as I crossed the creek I reached down and scooped up a couple of bucketfuls of water and—poured it into this can!"

Two of a Kind Boys.

One came to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jones last Friday night and one came to Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Jones Tuesday night.
